Grand Luxe Facial at Spa Radiance, San Francisco, $750

The clientele: Owner Angelina Umansky has treated Sharon Stone and Michelle Pfeiffer.

The commitment: Three hours, from deep cleansing to caviar mask.

The products and equipment: Umansky imports certified organic Luzern oxygen and serums from Switzerland, along with products from Biologique Recherche, Eminence Organic, and Rhonda Allison. In addition to microdermabrasion and microcurrent devices, she uses the LightWave, a light-therapy machine that helps reduce the appearance of wrinkles, stretch marks, and acne scars by stimulating cell renewal in damaged tissue.

A taste of what you get: Microdermabrasion, one of six Luzern oxygen treatments, a firming mask, lymphatic drainage, a session with the LightWave, and a caviar mask.

The X factor: Umansky created this facial for socialites who want to look good quickly. "Women who've been traveling or sick come in needing camera-ready skin for an event that night," she says.
